coppice management coppice forestry

30. October 2025

In the coppice management system, regeneration occurs from stump sprouts or root suckers after harvesting trees at a young age (short rotation period of about 20 years) and at a relatively low height.