forest conversion

30. October 2025

Conversion of non-site-appropriate and vulnerable stands into site-adapted, stable, and resilient stands, often involving the transformation of pure stands into mixed stands. A common example is the conversion of pure spruce stands through the underplanting of beech.