herbicide

30. October 2025

a chemical substance used to control or eliminate unwanted vegetation, particularly weeds that compete with crops or tree seedlings for light, water, and nutrients. In forestry, herbicides are applied selectively to promote the growth of desired tree species during regeneration or site preparation, while minimizing ecological impact and preventing damage to non-target plants.