regeneration, reproduction

30. October 2025

The process encompassing all natural events and silvicultural measures aimed at achieving and promoting regeneration plants, including both artificially (planting, seeding) and naturally established stands in their juvenile stage, as well as the population of regeneration plants ranging from seedlings and saplings to the thicket stage