selection forest selection cutting selection system

30. October 2025

Unlike even-aged high forests, where age classes occur in separate stands, all age and diameter classes coexist within the same area in a selection forest. Silvicultural operations simultaneously serve timber harvest, regeneration, and stand tending. In primeval forests, the selection phase represents a temporary developmental stage.