Self-pruning

30. October 2025

The natural process of shedding branches that have been shaded or diseased. This process is more developed among broadleaved trees than conifers. Also called cladoptosis or natural stem cleaning.