Site index

30. October 2025

A measure of actual or potential forest productivity, defined by the mean height of a specified number of dominant and co-dominant trees within a stand at a given age