stand stock density

30. October 2025

The ratio of the measured stand basal area (or volume) per hectare to the corresponding reference values of yield tables for a given site, site quality, and thinning regime. It is used, among other purposes, to determine thinning intensity. The natural degree of stocking is taken into account during thinning operations.