Whole-tree harvesting

30. October 2025

In the whole-tree harvesting system, entire trees including stems, branches, and sometimes tops, are felled and transported to the landing without prior delimbing or cutting. Processing into assortments takes place outside the stand, usually at the forest road